

EDUCATIONAL PHILANTHROPY

Is there a disconnect when it comes to the areas that schools, non-profits and philanthropics are keen to focus on?

The 2013 LLEAP (Leading Learning in Education and Philanthropy) Survey asked respondents what they were trying to change or strengthen to improve outcomes for students. Schools, non-profits and philanthropics were asked about their priorities on a list of 16 focus areas. The results in four focus areas were:

Priority
for schools

Academic outcomes

Chosen by 54% of schools ...
but only 32% of non-profits and 30% of philanthropics

Priority
for
schools

Teacher quality/quality teaching

Chosen by 45% of schools ...
but only 22% of non-profits and 12% of philanthropics

Priority
for
non-profits

Student transitions

Chosen by 40% of non-profits and 30% of philanthropics ... but only 22% of schools

Priority
for philanthropy

Student retention

Chosen by 32% of philanthropics and 41% of non-profits ...
but only 11% of schools
