

From one teacher to another

“ Reflect and connect ”

In our annual Teacher magazine reader survey, we ask you to share one piece of advice with a fellow educator. In this infographic, we share some of the responses we received from educators in India on the themes of reflecting and connecting.

‘It’s not what we teach, not our lesson plan but how we make them feel is very important.’

‘Patience and connectivity must be there.’

‘Love your work and complete it sincerely. All the more document it diligently.’

‘Raise the level of risk quotient, be it teaching or administration to foresee change and embrace it because our children need to be future-ready and they need skills to handle and manage challenges in the changing environment.’

‘Your wellbeing comes first! Do not ignore the warning signs. Remember, a happy teacher only can create joyful learning experiences.’

What would your piece of advice be? Share it with us at teachereditorial@acer.org

Teacher

www.teachermagazine.com/in_en